I bought this book to use with a 5-year-old piano student of mine. I had started her in the Alfred Basic Prep Level A, which is where I would normally start a kindergarten student. She was instantly taken with the characters. I used the lesson book and this workbook, and she started to make great progress.Sometimes "theory" can be tough for students to complete. This book has lots of color-by-note and other activities that don’t seem like such tough work. (What kid doesn’t enjoy coloring?) I think of this more like the Notespeller books from the Prep and Basic series, rather than the Theory books. At any rate, she didn’t object to doing any of the activities, so that’s good.

I’ve used the Alfred’s Mozart Mouse for my younger students, (ages 5 & 6) for years. It’s fun for them. They’re guided through the basics while being entertained by the stories of Beethoven Bear and Mozart Mouse. Super for kids who are starting out and are very young. If they in first grade, this series often feels "babyish" to them. I recommend it for pre-K and K.

I love this series. I have taught my grandchildren to play piano using this program. I first bought a bundle of this at a Garage Sale and fell in love with it. I have since continued to buy this for each child. I take them completely through the series and they are able to easily read music and on top of that, they love music.

Continues the series by adding in more 2-hand selections. Works well on building progress for my 6-year-old. It is getting harder, and it challenges her, but it’s not too much, and gives her a good sense of accomplishment when she masters each page.

This book was recommended by my sons piano teacher. He is 5-years old & comprehends this workbook very well! It’s well written with age appropriate activities & makes learning piano fun for him!

Since Music for Little Mozarts is based on the age group of 4-6, I am surprised that the music on the CD doesn’t have tempo options for beginning lessons. Also, I think there could be more "notice" given on when the songs will start; just seems to quick or hurried.

This was helpful in finding short pieces to learn

Great beginner books for 5 year olds. Very slow and easy introduction to piano. Has short stories and coloring pages. Perfect for little ones. Bought the other 2 set of books too
