Synopsis

The field of forensic anthropology has evolved dramatically in the past 40 years, as technological advances have led to new research initiatives and extended applications. This robust, dynamic, and international field has grown to include interdisciplinary research, continually improving methodology, and globalization of training. Reflecting the diverse nature of the science from the experts who have shaped it, Forensic Anthropology: An Introduction incorporates standard practices in addition to cutting-edge approaches in a user-friendly format, making it an ideal introductory-level text. The book begins with a historical overview of forensic anthropology and then presents the background and methodology of each specialty area. Designed for readers without previous theory-based or practical physical anthropology course experience, each chapter gives a detailed history and explanation of a particular methodology. Presenting topics within their areas of accomplishment and expertise, the authors include up-to-date analytical techniques and provide examples of these applications in typical casework. Through the bookÃ¢â ¬â„¢s accessible style of presentation, readers will gain an in-depth understanding of the history, methods, theory, and future direction of forensic anthropology. Suitable for undergraduate or masterÃ¢â ¬â„¢s level students, educators and professionals will also find the currency of information and the high-quality photos and illustrations useful in their practice.

MariaTeresa A. Tersigni-Tarrant, Ph.D., is a forensic anthropologist at the Joint POW/MIA Accounting CommandÃ¢â ¬â„¢s Central Identification Laboratory and is a fellow of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences. She received her bachelorÃ¢ ¬â„¢s degrees in microbiology and anthropology from Michigan State University in 2000 as a student of Dr. Norman J. Sauer, Ph.D., D-ABFA. She received her M.A. (2002) and Ph.D. (2005) in physical anthropology from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville as a student of Dr. Murray Marks, Ph.D., D-ABFA. Dr. Tersigni-Tarrant was awarded a postdoctoral fellowship in 2005 at the Joint POW/MIA Accounting CommandÃ¢ ¬â„¢s Central Identification Laboratory. During this fellowship, she was instrumental in establishing standard operating procedures for the histological analysis of human remains for the purpose of identifying missing armed service members. Until June 2012, Dr. Tersigni-Tarrant was the consulting forensic anthropologist for the Georgia Bureau of Investigation. Her research interests include bone biology, human and nonhuman histology, child abuseÃ¢ ¬â ¢specifically patterned fractures and timing of healingÃ¢ ¬â ¢human decomposition research, bone pathology, and developmental anatomy. Natalie R. Shirley, Ph.D., is an assistant professor of anatomy at LMU DeBusk College of Osteopathic Medicine and an adjunct faculty member at the University of Tennessee Anthropology Department. She received her B.A. (1998) and M.A. (2001) in anthropology from Louisiana State University and her Ph.D. (2009) from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville as a student of Dr. Richard Jantz, Director Emeritus of the Forensic Anthropology Center. Her postdoctoral research (Improving Sex Estimation from Crania Using 3-Dimensional CT Scans) was sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. Dr. ShirleyÃ¢ ¬â„¢s research interests include skeletal maturation in modern populations, age and sex estimation, secular change, and skeletal trauma. She is a member of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences, where she was awarded the Emerging Forensic Scientist Award (2007) for her research on secular change in skeletal maturation. Dr. Shirley also works as an instructor and researcher for the U.S. Department of JusticeÃ¢ ¬â„¢s International Criminal Investigative Training Assistance ProgramÃ¢ ¬â„¢s initiative in Colombia. She was recently featured as the forensic anthropologist on the National Geographic series The Great American Manhunt.

Worst class I’ve ever taken... Pretty decent book but wow the class is rough. Not recommended.

As expected.

I used this book for Forensic Anthropology course. It’s good for an introduction but was hoping for more applied case studies and research. I’ve met some of the professors featured in the book and know their research quite well. Good text all around.

Outstanding cornerstone text regarding forensic anthropology!In depth comprehensive and up to date techniques and information from the leading experts in the field. Doctor Natalie R. Shirley clearly has her fingure of the pulse of the Forensic Anthropology field. Bravo!

Great
