...on contract drafting and legal writing in general. Good substantive advice (not just drafting advice) on what to include in and exclude from contracts. Good exercises. I assign this to my students in my upper-level writing course at a law school in Boston. I hope they keep it as a reference after they leave the course and law school. It's a keeper.

This is an excellent good resource for the practicing transactional attorney. Helpful guidance on form and substance for a variety of commercial agreements.
