"’Cadogan are the pick of the bunch’ - Daily Telegraph"

Beguilingly slow-paced, this area is backwater France at its most bucolic and diverse. Here, the rivers Dordogne, Lot, Garonne and Tarn wind through a land of gentle hills, myriad chateaux, medieval fortified bastide towns, astonishingly unchanged Romanesque churches, and Paleolithic caves adorned with paintings from our early ancestors. While, amid the world’s largest concentration of vineyards, the bustling cities of Bordeaux and pink-brick Toulouse up the pace distinctly, elsewhere you get the feeling that little has changed since the Hundred Years’ War. Dana Facaros and Michael Pauls have produced this witty, astute insider’s guide to their very own patch of France Ã¢â ¬â œ its places, architecture, natural wonders, legends, quirks, cuisine and wine - and show you why it is a region to return to again and again.* Practical travel information* Over 700 hand-picked places to stay* More than 500 restaurants, bars and cafes* 35 maps and site plans plus a color touring-map section* Advice on the best wine routes, vintages and chateau visits* Stunning color photographs* Descriptions of regional specialties, including magret de canard and confits

Since we discovered Cadogan guides, they are the only books we carry. The Dordogne/Lot guide is no exception. All the "must see" sights are included, but the deliciously juicy historical notes make for lively reading and an insider feel to the past. Good recommendations for lodging and dining, and writing that both educates and entertains. The authors include information on prehistoric sites - an area overlooked by other guides.

Great writing, thoroughly researched, and the recommended hotels and restaurants did not disappoint us. Superb resource for anyone traveling in the Dordogne or Lot areas of France.
