Claiborne S. Young has been an avid boater for most of his life. He is recognized as an authority on the Southeast's coastal waters, and has appeared on public televison specials about the Intracoastal Waterway. He lives in Burlington, NC.

Found the guide to be very accurate and it was very helpful as I planned a trip using Chart Kit Region # 6 .The Guide confirmed some of the questionable areas noted on the charts .Also the info on marinas was helpful in planning a days run as traveling by sail is a longer and slower day - info on fuel was helpful .I would like to have seen a mileage reference chart .A very useful and informative book .

My family and I recently took a three day sailboat cruise in the Albemarle sound. This was covered in Chapter 2 of this book. FANTASTIC resource. The text gave exact lat. and long. of protected anchorages, restaurant recommendations, location of public showers and pump-out stations, local attractions, etc. This is a MUST HAVE if you are planning a vacation on a boat in this region.Thanks for a great book.

Good publication. Could benefit from MANY more detailed maps and pictures as well as MUCH more anchorage information. For the true sailing voyager that won't afford a Marina this may NOT be the right guide for you. Well articulated, but ambiguous prose, can prove a bit misleading. I prefer the dry hard facts outlined in easily referenced, numbered sequences.

This book was in great condition and the edition was 2000 which I wanted. Good service Wonderful cruising guide!

If you are living in Eastern NC and have a boat, this should be in your library. Lots of good, detailed information on what to see and where to go, as well as where get help if you need it.

This a well organized and written guide. But it obviously includes only the sites that were willing to pay for the advertisement. Several very good marina's are conspicuous by their absense.

Both the NC & SC books were extremely helpful informative. We can't wait to go on an adventure and eat and stay at one of the recommended stops along the coastal areas of the Carolinas.
