Synopsis

Heritage Unlocked is a new English Heritage series which aims to encourage visitors to explore some of our lesser-known sites. Each book covers one region of England, and will include features on the region's history, culture and character, as well as a concise but informative entry on each site, all fully illustrated in colour. OS maps, lists of useful websites and further reading, brief histories of each county, visitor directions to each site and information on joining English Heritage are also included. In a specially designed format - small square paperbacks with flaps - these new guides will appeal to general readers, new visitors and heritage enthusiasts alike. This book describes the essential features of English Heritage free sites in Dorset, Devon and Somerset. The sites themselves are often set in magnificent, scenic countryside and range in date from the Neolithic to early modern times. They include Bronze Age burial mounds, chambered tombs and stone alignments, Iron Age settlement huts and hillforts such as the huge Maiden Castle, the foundations of a Roman temple, medieval village ruins and Norman stone keeps, a Civil war memorial, and a 17th-century market hall.
