Synopsis

Lonely and desperate, Marcus Neill visits a brothel, searching for a taste of what he's denied himself for years. Once there, his shame and scruples prevent him from taking a prostitute, so he turns to drink instead. Too drunk to defend himself, he is beaten, robbed, and left for dead on the street.A flat overlooking a notorious brothel is not ideal lodgings for a war widow, yet there is nowhere do-gooder Helen Helmsley would rather be. When she finds a wounded stranger outside her door, she knows it's her duty to save him...but nursing the handsome man in her bed might be more than she bargained for. Customer Reviews

I love Allyson Jeleyne’s books. Yes there is a lot of sex If that bothers you don’t read any of them. But you will be missing out of reading a great story line. This book is the second book about the Neill brothers. This is Marcus’s story. Marcus found Helen who nursed him back to health after Marcus was brutally beaten. They fell in love. Helen is a very kind and loving person. She brings the best out in Marcus. Helen helps out in an orphanage. Marcus falls in love with Baby Joy. Helen also helps the prostitutes who are brutally beaten. Marcus pays for the surgery the one girl will need. This is a must read book. It shows how coming from a rich dysfunctional family doesn't mean you will be mean spirited.

This is another enjoyable read in the series. Looking forward to the next book!
