Customer Reviews

There are lots of colorful pictures and stickers kids would love to stick on the pages they are meant for but this is not very educational. There's just small amounts of information on the various continents. The age group that would enjoy this is probably 7, maximum 8, and under because they'll probably enjoy the stickers and that still provides some incidental learning.

Perfect for pre-k, kindergarten, first grade kids who love stickers. Pages are a bit dark for adults to read, but my kids love this series of books.

This is a gorgeous book. It's part geography book, part activity book. The cover is very sturdy, and a glossy finish protects it from spills. Colors are beautiful and artwork is detailed. Fun facts abound and tie into the activities that are interspersed within. Stickers are heavy-duty and also glossy, and there is a punch-out the kids can make into a globe.

This book is AMAZING! Full of fun activities, graphics, and stickers for kids to really get into geography and the world around us.

Nice activity book. My daughter is a teacher and gave this to one of her students as an end of year gift.

Very happy with the purchase

Some geography books can be...what's the word I'm looking for?...mind-numbingly dull. Imports, exports, natural resources - I'm not interested in that stuff now, much less when I was a kid! So it was refreshing to flip though Lonely Planet's Adventures Around the Globe. It's not a comprehensive, every-detail-you-never-wanted-to-know-about-a-country book. It's more of a dip-your-toe-in-and-get-a-taste-for-how-different-places-live kind of book. There's no mention of country capitals or population stats or any of that stuff kids usually skip over anyway. What there is is interesting facts about different places and the people and animals who live there. Did you know that giraffes only sleep 30 minutes a night - and while standing up? My 6 year old was most interested in the sticker scenes. The stickers were difficult to peel off, but that's a minor complaint about an otherwise awesome book!

We received this book as part of a tour to give an honest review.As a parent I was very impressed with this book, it is filled with a lot of not only cool facts but awesome pictures and activities for the kids to do. So not only are you learning but you are having fun while doing it.K was really excited to read this book and he got very happy when he realized that he could decorate with stickers on some of the pages. You use the stickers to decorate certain places like maybe Venice, or The Great Barrier Reef. When asked what his favorite part was his reply was "everything it is so cool."The recommended age says 3-5 but I would say it would be better for children between 5 on up instead.This is a great book to have and even if you read it once and do all the activities within the book you can always pick it up to read it over. The pictures are awesome and I think this will get kids to want to find out more cool facts and information about the different places within this book.
