Customer Reviews

"The handbook...will assist experienced cataloguers as well as LIS students in the application of the most commonly used RDA rules for description of entities and resources and the definition of access points in order to help to implement the new cataloguing system. It provides useful information at a foundation level." --IFLA Education and Training Section Newsletter"Both seasoned and new catalogers alike should purchase this source. It is an indispensable resource as the community becomes more immersed in RDA cataloging." --Technical Services Quarterly

Robert L. Maxwell is senior librarian and chair of the Special Collections and Formats Catalog Department at the Harold B. Lee Library at Brigham Young University. His most recent book, FRBR: A Guide for the Perplexed, was published in 2008. He has chaired the RBMS Bibliographic Standards Committee of ACRL and has served on the Committee on Cataloging: Description and Access (CC:DA) of ALCTS. He is the author of the Highsmith Award-winning Maxwell's Guide to Authority Work as well as Maxwell's Guide to AACR2.

Whether catalog for a public, academic, or specialty library, this guide is an essential reference. Catalogers at my library use it daily. Indispensable!

Plenty of examples

It is an excellent book.It is very easy to read and comprehensive.I like it, I recommend this book.

Guidance for the AACR2 cataloguer. A necessary companion for navigating RDA. To bad I couldn't retire before I had to learn yet another set of rules. sigh

It is a very comprehensive tool book for cataloguers. There are lots of examples to help to understand the various cases. It is very easy to read and to understand. A great book.

I got this book for my wife, a cataloger. she felt it was very useful in her work and worth the price

It gives me the detailed coding in MARC. Especially WORK AND EXPRESSION coding in authority records is perfect
