Synopsis

(BH Piano). Includes 10 new transcriptions for piano, never before in print, of the sensual music of Astor Piazzolla. "In the past 20 years or so, the works of Astor Piazzolla (1921-1992) have been heard frequently in performances by small ensembles or occasionally in arrangements for a solo instrument and piano. Now, fortunately, they are available for the enjoyment of solo pianists...the arrangements are quite pianistic...These are good teaching pieces, especially for use as relatively short recital pieces."-- American Music Teacher

I'd recommend for the late intermediate to advanced pianist. A collection with considerable variety, done by a master of tango.

Pianists at the grade 9/10 level of piano will easily learn and enjoy the exhuberant tangos of Astor Piazzolla. They would be great recital pieces for the end of year concert and/or "boredom busters" for classical pianists looking for something lighter to play for their friends and family. I have noticed that competitive figure skaters frequently choose Piazzolla's passionate music for their competitions as the pulsing rhythms likely help propell them through their difficult programs. An appealing collection for all generations.

I am a concert classical pianist, and I think this is not in the advanced level. The melodies are nice, but the arrangement is not "classical". I would not put in my solo recital, maybe students'. I was looking for something sounds more classical. This is good for piano bar, but not recital halls.
