Synopsis

In this lighthearted childrenÃ¢â ¬â„¢s book, a little girl named Anna talks to her mom about her daddy being deployed. Deployment is a new experience for this little girl, as it is with many more children every year, and she doesnÃ¢â ¬â„¢t like it very much at all. Anna and her mom explore her feelings about deployment and all of the ways that the little girl can think of to get her daddy home...fast. Anna's mom encourages her creativity through make-believe and imaginative play. In the end, Anna's mom tells her that they need to be strong and daddy will be home before she knows it. Anna dreams about the day her daddy comes home and how perfect it will be! Like other board books intended for children ages 0 - 3 this book is illustrated with large colorful pictures depicting Anna's ideas, while short sentences tell about the picture for developing young readers. The story is 190 words in length for developing attention spans. The artwork is intended to be another part of the learning experience for young readers, teaching children the names of different types of different objects, colors and places in the world around them. The Ã¢â ¬Å“feeling" words in this book are intended to help young children learn more about some of the feelings they may experience when a parent is deployed, or on a trip away from home.

Brandy Marik is a certified School Counselor in the state of Tennessee. Brandy is a military spouse, veteran and mother of a four-year-old daughter, who has found that there is still a need for interactive books that explore emotions while teaching important developmental concepts to young military children.

This book is a perfect story to help explain deployment to kids. My daughter quotes it often.

Makes deployment a tad easier on my two year old. We read this several times a night and it calms her down when she's sad for daddy.

This is an easy to read book for children with deployed Dads. It is very colorful and fun to read.

This book showcases a little girl's first experince with the deployment of a parent and the anticipation of his return. Cute story with colorful pictures! A must-have for any military family with young children.

The message is great. The artwork is outstanding! If you have a child of a deployed servicemember, this book is for you.

My little one and a half year old loves this book. The art work is amazing and the book has a great message.
