Love the calendar... wish for more columns for bigger families. My husband and I or he and my youngest share a column, depending on who's the busiest that month. The stickers are helpful but don't always seem to have an obvious place to go- like a tiny "travel" sticker that gets lost in the sea of columns and white space. I expect I'll buy this again, though! It's been really helpful for our family organization!

I've been getting this calendar probably 10 years now. I love it. However, I always have a ton of leftover stickers and they are ALL the same. They have NEVER changed the stickers. Also, the stickers with the activities are ones that don't really apply to us. I think they should have more birthday and vacation stickers than playdate, sleepover, library, haircut, dance class, music lesson, concert, rehearsal, show, company, camp, travel, welcome home- all which my kid (or us) doesn't do. I just this year started using practice and big game as he just started doing soccer. They also need to change the character stickers as they've been the same all these years. The other thing is I like to hang it on the side of the fridge so I can see it everyday. They should include heavy duty magnets with it. I'm in real estate and happened to have leftover magnets from where you can stick a business card on it and make it into a magnet for people. I'm out of them now so I'm going to have to go to the craft store and find some stick on magnets for it. It does get very heavy as you go through the year so they do need strong or multiple magnets. I do like that it has several columns for several people so you can fit each person's activities for the day. I even add a column for the dog for his vet visits or when he needs a heartworm pill. I don't like the fact that it's a 17 month calendar that starts in July. I didn't buy it in the middle of the year. I never use August-December as I used it on my previous calendar. They should just make it a 12 month calendar! So, love the calendar and will continue to get it but they should really change those things.

I usually use google calendar with my husband but with nannies and grandparents sometimes watching our kids, having our young kids schedule and doctor appointments on the calendar makes it readable and visible to all. Surprisingly my 3 year old loves helping me make entries in the calendar. It could be the bright pictures and beautiful colors.

This ship is on course all with the thanks to this marvelous easy to navigate calendar which each family member uses and turns to in time of need. It's my umbrella in the days of rain. It's the branch to swing off of. It's the tree version of my GPS. It's my kind of butler. It's like suntans and beach balls falling from the sky.

Nice size squares for writing in. I like the vertical layout. I don't need the Boynton characters and art, so looked for something else, but this really seems to have the best layout. Lucky for us we are a family of 5 so we all fit. As the kids are older: 7. 10, 13, and two adults, there's enough going on that this makes it much easier to see the day, week, and month all at a glance. Very nice layout. This is my fourth year buying it after a friend pushed me to getting it the first time.

I've used this for years as my three kids were growing up. It was so much easier keeping track of everyone's schedule! I tried other calendars- coffee themed to match my kitchen decor- and my kids complained! Now I'm down to just three of us at home and my youngest insists on this calendar. It's a family tradition.

I am not a mom. I found this calendar in a small, family-owned bookstore, years ago. I wasn't even in the market for a calendar. But I saw it and found it interesting. I bought it, brought it home and to my delighted surprise discovered a BETTER calendar. It gives you room. And to me more room is beneficial. I can write activities down, even if I make a mistake or something changes, I have room. And I love the illustrations. So I recommend it to anyone. Mom's, wife's and singles. And you have the convenience of a wall calendar.

Mom's family wall calendar is honestly the best calendar on the market whether your a mom or not The best part is the horizontal huge spaces to write multiple appointments and important dates. The many bonuses are....numerous stickers for paties, doctor appointments, school events, a magnetic sheet for your refrigerator for important numbers, and this calendar also lists many holidays and special multicultural dates. I have used this calendar solely for more than six years and can not see myself purchasing a different one. If asked how to improve this product I honestly at this time can think of no way to improve this product. I highly recommend purchasing it.
