Peter Wright, Esq., and Pamela Wright, MA, MSW are the authors of several best selling books, including Wrightslaw: Special Education Law and Wrightslaw: From Emotions to Advocacy. The Wrights are also adjunct law professors at the William and Mary School of Law. Sandra Webb O'Connor, M.Ed., provides wise advice and reliable information as the editor of The Special Ed Advocate from Wrightslaw.com, the #1 ranked special education web site.

This is great for someone who is new to special education (teacher, parent, etc). But since I have been a special education teacher for over 20 years, it was just a refresher. It explained the IEP process, what to expect at meetings, who was responsible for what in the student's education and how to solve basic issues, just to name a few items. It is easy reading so that makes it more interesting.

Great book!

Well written, point by point on what to do on IEPs, different situations, BIPs etc.... Really help me in my kid’s last ARD.

One to keep on the share shelf.

As with all their other special ed books, Wrightslaw hit another one out of the park. Their books are the definitive collection for special ed parents, teachers and administrators. Parents, want to know you and your child’s rights?~ try the advocacy book. Want to know the educational law concerning special ed? They have a book for it. Want to understand No Child Left Behind or IDEA? Well, that’s there too. As lawyers and special ed advocates, these folks definitely know their stuff. As both a special ed teacher and a special ed mom, I appreciate the user friendly way their products are laid out, clearly and concisely, and hands-on knowledge that you can put directly to practical use. I would also recommend that you visit their website and check out the webinars cds they have for sale-very awesome information dissimination.Wrightslaw: Special Education Law, 2nd EditionWrightslaw: From Emotions to Advocacy: The Special Education Survival GuideWrightslaw: Special Education LawWrightslaw: From Emotions to Advocacy - The Special Education Survival GuideWrightslaw: No Child Left BehindWrightslaw: IDEA 2004

Very helpful in preparing for IEP meetings. Clearly explains expectations of the meeting and the rights of the parent/school.

Got this a few days before our CSE meeting. It helped me focus in on priorities and how to rewrite some of the school presented goals. Excellent resource.
