I was made homebound last weekend by an early December icestorm, and had the opportunity to enjoy The Steel City Garden. It was hard to put down. Interwoven with practical tips on organic gardening,whimsical anecdotes and local stories,and punctuated by an impressive,sometimes astonishing montage of color photography,this work is something more than a gardening book. In capturing the essence of the spirit of the region,it is a valentine to the Pittsburgh gardening community.The charm of this work lies in the writer's unassuming style,he is "Everygardener

Steel City Garden is a must have for any gardener and any Pittsburgh fan. The photography is stunning and the layout is superb. The detail Doug Oster uses to describe the multitudes of plants, from flowers to fruits, is spectacular. You can tell his heart and soul goes into this. I love the tips scattered throughout the book. My wife and I are avid gardeners and sports fans. When we aren't gardening we are busy cheering on our beloved Pittsburgh sports teams. So, this book compliments our lifestyle perfectly. The book could not have been released at a better time. I plan on buying several of these as Christmas gifts. What are you waiting for? Buy some for friends and family!
