Martie Duncan and Chanda Temple have caused me to get my apron out of the closet, to pull out my mixing bowls and get back in my kitchen. This is a delightful full colored book filled with mouth watering recipes from top notched chefs. The recipes are written in an easy to read (and cook) format for beginners to the experienced cook. The book outlines recipes for cocktails,soups and salads, main course, desserts and much more. Some of the most unique features are "Days Gone By" where the reader can travel down memory lane to remember many Birmingham restaurants from the years gone by. I loved reading the section titled "People Are Saying" where local citizens from Mayor William Bell to Attorney & Legal Analyst Eric Welch Guster discusses their favorite dishes at local restaurants. If you are not hungry there’s a section for you too, discussing things to do in and around Birmingham.Some of the recipes I’ve enjoyed making are J Clyde’s cocktail Alabama Honeymoon, Ashley Mac’s Famous Mac ’N Cheese, Eagle’s Large Lima Beans, Rogue Tavern’s Pimento Cheese Sliders, and the Brown Sugar Pound Cake with Bourbon Carmel Glaze

BT Dreamcakes Bakery.

Great history and pictures, love the receipes. Loved Loved Loved going to Joy Youngs for Chineese food.

This cookbook is awesome! Martie and Chanda have done an excellent job showcasing Birmingham’s Best Bites! Great restaurants like Highlands Bar and Grill, Bottega, Chez Fon Fon, Satterfield’s Restaurant, Rogue Tavern, The J. Clyde, Bob Sykes BarB-Q, Ted’s Restaurant, the Bright Star, Dreamland Bar-B-Que, Ocean, 26, Vino, Maki Fresh, the Gardens CafÃƒÂ© by Kathy G, Shindigs Catering and Dreamcakes have all shared recipes. This makes a great gift for any occasion!

Such a fabulous cookbook. Martie has captured the best of my hometown and its culinary surprises. Love, love, love these recipes. Thanks, Martie!
