UPDATE (AUG 2017): For some reason, the reviews for the 2017 and 2018 engagement calendar are linked together. My review from last year (below) holds true for the 2018 version as well. Great calendar!Although everything seems to be electronic these days, I still prefer a paper engagement calendar for my personal use. I record all sorts of things in it - appointments, vacation information, exercise, etc. I purchase the Sierra Club Engagement Calendar every year. I have kept several years worth, which I can go back through and reminisce about various activities. The pages are not as thick as they once were, but I still find them to be of decent quality. The spiral binding makes it easy to flip through the pages. There is one week per page with ample writing space for each day. (See customer images: 2017 on left; 2018 on right.) Best of all, the photos of the animals and scenery are absolutely spectacular. I especially like it when I discover a picture or two taken in my own state. It makes me appreciate my surroundings that much more.

I am disappointed by the quality of the paper in this year’s calendar. It is no longer the glossy thick stock used in the past. The colors appear washed out and when I write down entries, the color from the photo on the back transfers on to the next page. I’ll be buying the Audubon Engagement Calendar for 2018 and future years, until I hear that Sierra Club returns to using high quality paper and ink.

Got this as a gift for my wife and she uses it for all her appointments and reminders. It enables her to never let me forget anything (curses). The rating was her idea but I can;t argue with the fact that if fulfills its function perfectly.

I really liked the photos from last year's Engagement calendar (2016), better, (minus week - jumping spider on maple leaf, Wellsburg, West Virginia).Not really looking forward to the turn of the page, with each new week, as much.

Great calendar. Beautiful pictures and enough room to write notes for each day. I know my phone has a calendar, but there's an assumption that I have the phone when I need it rather than my daughter being glued to it! I found I still worked better with paper at helping me keep appointments.

Paper is too thin and fragile for a daily use. Even though pictures are pretty, I have seen prettier in other similar agendas. In terms of paper quality, pictures and size I prefer Inner Reflections. I hace been buying Inner Reflections for several years. This year when I attempted to buy it, it was out of stock and I decided to go with this one. For next year I will go back with Inner Reflections Engagement.

As usual, theÃ Â Sierra Club Engagement Calendar 2017Ã Â makes marking events a pleasure. They have gorgeous photos of wildlife and plants, often tied to the season. Engagement calendars may be a bit old school, but there is something very concrete about having one of these on my desk. It is a complement to the ubiquitous electronic Outlook calendar.

I usually get the Audubon calendar and decided to get this one for a change of scenery. The pages are thinner and the pictures are smaller. There is a lot of white space around the pictures and the picture quality is lower than the Audubon calendar. I will use it for next year but will not order this calendar again.
