Author Profile Dr. Anthony Mescher is Professor of Anatomy and Senior Fellow of Institute for Molecular and Cellular Biology. His teaching and research focus is the regenerating amphibian limb, which is able to reproduce itself completely following amputation. Growth and tissue regeneration in this system are dependent on an effect of the nerves, but the nature of the neural factor(s) which stimulate cell proliferation is not known. Mescher completed a thorough revision of Junquira's Histology Text and Atlas and is the logical choice for the histology review card concept.

These were required for my histology courses... they are as described in the description above; flash cards with pictures of tissues. I have also purchased surgical instruments flash cards, they came with a nice large ring so that the current cards I needed to study could be put on the ring making it much easier to study without losing them, dropping them etc..since these types of cards are slick. These particular cards just come in the box which is too big and cumbersome to carry around as well as difficult to remove just a few that you need at the time. I guess I'm going to have to punch holes in them myself and use my old ring!Other than that, they are colorful when they are needed to be with the appropriate stains and with the tissue contents well labeled. They do help to teach me what I need to know and use different microscopes for viewing different types of tissues.

I am an Anatomy and Physiology student that struggles with histology. Physical flash cards work well. But, I really like he way these cards work on the Kindle Fire. While you are learning the slides, you can hold the page between the cell and the key. Once you learn them, you can challenge yourself. So far I have just tried this on the Kindle Fire Gen 2 the 7" version. It will probably work even better with my Asus Transformer.Overall, this is a great way to have your flashcards with you all the time. I can just leave the Kindle on my desk and look over at it between tasks to get ready for my lab final. I have a few weeks to study. I'll try to remember to post an update after the exam.

Seriously helps a lot!

Best resource to use to study for the Histology NBME. Each one has a picture and a clinical correlation. I'm thrilled I found these before the test.

Also left these cards over seas when I left another fine mess I got myself in =to laurel...but seriously if you are a basic pre med student every little bit of preperation can help...so buy the cards they have good pics and will give you a basis without looking through a microscope.

Pretty Helpful.

The images are high quality, the explanations are succinct and high-yield. Perfect for Step 1! Highly recommend. There are 200 cards in total.

Used these for my grad school class. Really liked the detailed pictures that made it easier to see what the professor was talking about.
