Arleta Richardson grew up in a Chicago hotel under her grandmotherÃ¢â ¬â„¢s care. As they sat overlooking the shores of Lake Michigan, her grandmother shared memories of her childhood on a Michigan farm. These treasured family stories became the basis for the GrandmaÃ¢â ¬â„¢s Attic series.

So much fun to read. Love all of the Gramma's Attic series books. She has a great story telling style.

Bought for my great niece who is 10 and enjoys reading.

These books deserve a place on the shelf of every discerning family's bookshelf. They are fascinating accounts of life 110 years ago, told from the perspective of a grandmother telling her granddaughter the tales from her childhood. They are true stories written by that granddaughter herself. They are morally upright, sweet, and often very funny. They should be in every library and school library too.

My eight year-old daughter has truly enjoyed reading this series. She received the first book as a birthday present and as soon as she read it, asked for the others. She even insisted that I read them so I could see how clever and interesting they are! Each story is actually a lesson about life that teaches children how to act humbly and with consideration for others. I would highly recommend these for any little girl.

My daughter loves these books! Really great for young kids. My daughter is 9 and the series is on her Christmas list.

Just as good now as when I read them as a girl. I now read them to my little girls.

I read these humorous books to my 8-year-old and we both love the stories!
