Customer Reviews

Russ Falconer, JD, is an attorney in private practice in Dallas, Texas, and is an experienced LSAT instructor who has worked as both a classroom teacher and a private tutor. Drew Johnson, is co-founder of Anaxos Inc., an Austin-based company specializing in the development of high-stakes test items and test-preparation material for all major standardized tests.

I HIGHLY DO NOT RECCOMEND. I have studied a wide variety of LSAT prep books and this seems to be the worst of them by far. The other LSAT prep books seem to be uniform with their questions and answers, whereas this book is completely far-off the mark. The questions and answer choices are filled with improper grammar, which not only makes reading and practicing the questions harder but it also changes up what the correct answer turns out to be versus what it should be. The LSAT is heavily reliant on those small words that change the meaning of the arguments, yet this book takes no heed.I score a 166 regularly with all other companies' LSAT prep books, however with this book, my score drops down to a 145.

My mentor recommended this textbook an it has been great! Less confusing than the others an most accurate in terms of how the test is actually taken.

ok

Exactly what I wanted.

The book provides all the information needed to suceed on the test.

Great book and came in great conditions
