The author has a serious problem- he doesn't know what he wants to do when he grows up. Meanwhile, he's done such things as wildland fire fighting, running a mountain shop, flying airplanes, shooting photos, and writing books. He's a backcountry skier, climber, figure skater, mountain biker, amateur radio operator, river runner, and sea kayaker- but the thing that really floats his boat is hiking and backpacking. No matter what else he tries, the author always come back to hiking- especially long, rough, cross-country trips in places like the Grand Canyon.

Some people never learn. But what little he has learned, he's willing share with you- via his books, of course, but also via his websites, blogs, and whatever works.

Detailed guide that not only includes some of the best day hikes near Tucson, but also tells you what terrain you will expect to encounter, whether or not you can bring your pet, a detailed list of what things you may see there, as well as a list of what you may need to take along with you on a day hike. I highly recommend it if you are new to or just visiting Tucson.

This is a small guide book that easily fits into your daypack or jacket pocket and details short hikes in the Tucson area. It’s a small price to pay for the confidence that you are on the right trail (and will be able to find your way back to the car).

Book received quickly and as advertised.

Nice Hiking Book, Yes, just as described.

Very helpful

This trail guide is a great size (4 1/4" x 7") so it’s easy to carry. The hikes are organized well and the trail descriptions are well done. Directions to the trailhead are clear. One major shortfall - it gives no elevation change for any hike. It adjusts the hike difficulty level and adds "... due to elevation change." Had I known that I would not have bought this guide.

I got this book for a friend and they just love to hike. When they got the book they loved it.

Well organized, with a good format, informative and accurate. We used it to zero in on the best hikes wherever we were.
