Customer Reviews

Gr 3 UpÃ¢â ¬â •The 2017 edition opens with a particular emphasis: a foreword by Buzz Aldrin, an interview with astronaut Chris Hadfield, and the first section focusing on space. The other sections cover topics such as humans, toys, architecture, science, and sports. Each page consists of numerous crisp full-color photos to accompany the remarkable facts. Some pages have "Did You Know" fact boxes. A vertical page spread, "Factographic," features eye-catching graphics and statistics. Teachers can use this volume during lessons to add interest on topics such as 3-D printing or Shakespeare, while students of all ages will be drawn to this offering to read alone or with friends. Parents and guardians will be tempted to peruse as well. VERDICT An engaging addition to most collections.Ã¢â ¬â •Beth McGuire, Hempfield Area School District, Greensburg, PA --This text

Guinness World Records

This book is the poor man’s "freak show". It can be enjoyed for minutes or hours. I will never tire of reading about these oddities and always wonder where these people hang out.

Good book, but already had it.

Love it

This is the same quality as all the years before. I have them all and I am very happy with all of them. The price is under the value of the product.

My granddaughter loved this book. Between all the birthday gifts she got, this is the one she picked up after all the unwrapping.

Grandson loved this XMAS book

Interesting for all ages

My grandson collects the Guiness world books.
